

Louella and Faye

Louella Daigle has been caring for Faye since their mother passed away in 2001. Because of her disability, Faye requires 24 hour supports and the physical care she needs is beginning to take a toll on Louella due to their advancing age. Both sisters are in their sixties. Louella wants to continue providing loving care, but needs assistance that the New Opportunities Waiver would provide. Faye has been on the NOW waiting list for eight years. Rather than placing her in a high cost institution, Faye deserves to be at home with her family. Shouldn't everyone have that opportunity?
